Baden-Baden, November 6, 2024 – The recently concluded largest international medical congress for complementary medicine in Europe, held from October 30 to November 3 in Baden-Baden, was not only a milestone for complementary and environmental medicine but also an important platform for companies from Lüdenscheid. With their presence and engagement, they significantly contributed to the success of the congress, highlighting their leading role in the development and application of environmental medical procedures, such as Toxopheresis.

Strong Impulses from Lectures and Contributions by Medica and MedSelect

Medica GmbH and MedSelect GmbH, two medical companies from Lüdenscheid, presented their innovative concepts at this internationally focused specialist congress. A highlight was the lecture on Toxopheresis, delivered by Dr. Burgard, the medical director, on behalf of Medica and MedSelect. Toxopheresis, an innovative procedure designed to detoxify the body from harmful toxins, heavy metals, and pathogens, helps restore natural tolerance to stressors, as well as the body's regulatory capacity and functionality. This topic generated great interest among the attending professionals. The lecture sparked intense discussions and underscored the expertise of the Lüdenscheid-based medical technology companies in this field.

Toxopheresis in the Spotlight

The opportunity to free people from environmental toxins and thereby reduce inflammation markers in the body was seen by the professional audience at the Baden-Baden conference as an innovative treatment method. Toxopheresis is a double-membrane filtration apheresis procedure, which has been used worldwide in medicine for over 25 years. It is recognized as a gentle method for body-regulating treatment due to its long-standing application, making it versatile and effective.

New Networks and International Collaboration in Focus

For the companies from Lüdenscheid, the congress in Baden-Baden provided an opportunity to strengthen the innovative treatment of Toxopheresis in environmental medicine and to establish international networks.
